The Vacek BioMarket store is located immediately next to the world-famous 500 years old historical Charles Bridge in Prague, the capital of the Czech Republic, located in the „Heart of Europe“. Charles Bridge is the second oldest stone bridge in Europe. The reconstruction of the Bio-Market store was necessitated by the terms of the new lease with the City of Prague, which owns the approx. 500-year old historically protected building on the ground floor of which the BioMarket store is located. This reconstruction was unavoidable, as was the closure of the store for business for the two week period from November 1 through November 14, 2014, but on the morning of November 15, 2014 the BioMarket store will re-open with an all new tiled floor that will please both the historical preservation society which has the final say on such matters as well as the city of Prague and most of all the customers and employees, and should last without any major reconstruction for many years to come.
